History

Find out about Rhiwddolion's past...

Hello! Welcome to Rhiwddolion (say Ruth-oh-leon)! It's the 1940's and my name is Ella Jones, I'm eight and I live here at Ty Uchaf (say Tee-oo-caff), in the most beautiful part of Wales. I love it here! We had to move here because my dad was poorly. The Doctor said that the clean air would do dad the world of good – and he was right, he's been getting better and better ever since!

I live here with my mam, my dad and my pet duck! Do you have any pets? I'll bet you don't have a pet duck like me! Quack quack!

Have a look at the picture below – that's me in front of Ty Uchaf; you can see the little pram in the background. Mam, dad and I speak Welsh mostly but I don't suppose you do, so I'm writing to you in English instead.

Welsh Words:

Ty means 'house' and uchaf means 'high' so Ty Uchaf means 'High House'.

Coch means 'red' so Ty Coch means 'Red House'.

Capel means chapel so Ty Capel means Chapel House.

Ty Uchaf is a really old house. Dad says it was built at the end of the seventeenth century – that's over three hundred and thirty years ago for you! Which building are you staying in – Ty Capel (say Tee-cah-pell) or Ty Coch (say Tee-cok)? Ty Coch is about two hundred and thirty years old and Ty Capel is about one hundred and thirty years old. Wow!

Although it's quiet here now in Rhiwddolion, at one time it was a very busy place. Dad says that there was a time when lead (say led) mining happened here for about 30 years. After that there was a lot of slate quarrying (say qwar-ee-ing). I would hate to have to work in the dangerous quarries, climbing the rickety ladders up the mountainside all day! I'm lucky that it's only little boys who get sent to work in the quarries! Phew!

Fact:

Slate Quarrying means getting slabs of slate out of the ground and splitting it into smaller pieces to cover roofs of houses, for floors and for gravestones and memorial tablets.

Slate mines are found all over the world but Wales has always been the major slate mining region in the UK.

Every weekday I walk down the hill to the school in Betwys-y-Coed (say Bet-see-Cohed) but a long time ago there used to be a school right here in Rhiwddolion. It was in Ty Capel! As well as being the chapel, it used to be the school too. Imagine this tiny building being your school – I bet just your classroom is double the size of the chapel!

When I'm not at school, my mum sometimes lets me wander down to the tiny swimming pool just outside of Ty Coch.

A man named Mr. Bright owns Ty Coch. He had the great idea to dam the stream outside to make a tiny pool for his grandchildren to play in, but my dad was the one who helped him to build it. Dad's very clever like that – he once made me a mini duck pond out of slates!

Mr. Bright and his family live in Liverpool but they come here as often as they can. I just love it when they come as I have lots more children to play with. We have great fun splashing each other in the pool, although we often get told off for splashing Mrs. Bright's fancy frocks!

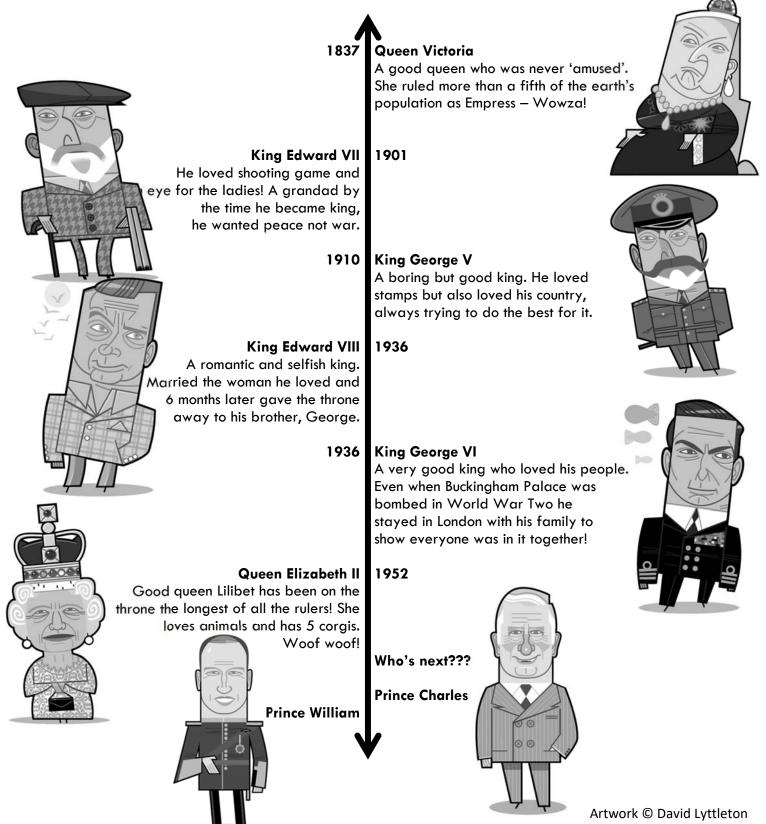

Mr Bright (in the hat) and his family.

Have you ever tried to dam a stream before? You can use rocks or sticks – just lay them in a line in the running water until you've built a little wall. Watch as the water builds up behind the wall, making a little pool – eventually it'll spill over the top of your stones though, just like a waterfall!

Unruly Rulers

Who were the Saxe-Coburgs and Windsors?

Saxe-Coburg was the surname of German Prince Albert who was Queen Victoria's husband. When Victoria died Saxe-Coburg continued as the royal family surname. It changed to Windsor in 1917 because England was fighting against Germany in World War One and the King was worried British people wouldn't like a German royal family anymore - so he changed them to Windsors, after the castle.

Meet Queen Victoria – who ruled when Ty Capel was built.

Hi Vicky!

So when did you become queen? I became queen on the 20 June 1837 when I was 18.

What's your nickname?

Some people call me The Grandmother of Europe. I had 9 children who married different European princes and princesses. I had 42 grandchildren in total!

What is your favourite thing to do?

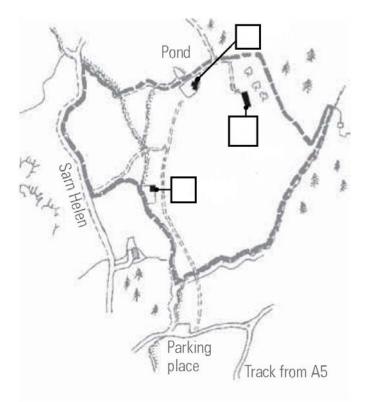

I loved visiting Scotland. I even built a castle so that I could go all the time!

What is the naughtiest thing you've ever done?

How dare you, I am never naughty. Everyone must be well behaved at all times.

The three Landmark Trust buildings at Rhiwddolion are shown on the map below.

Can you decide which building is which on the map?

Take an adult with you and go for a walk to find them all, or cheat and look in the Landmark Trust handbook.

Then, label each building with the right letter:

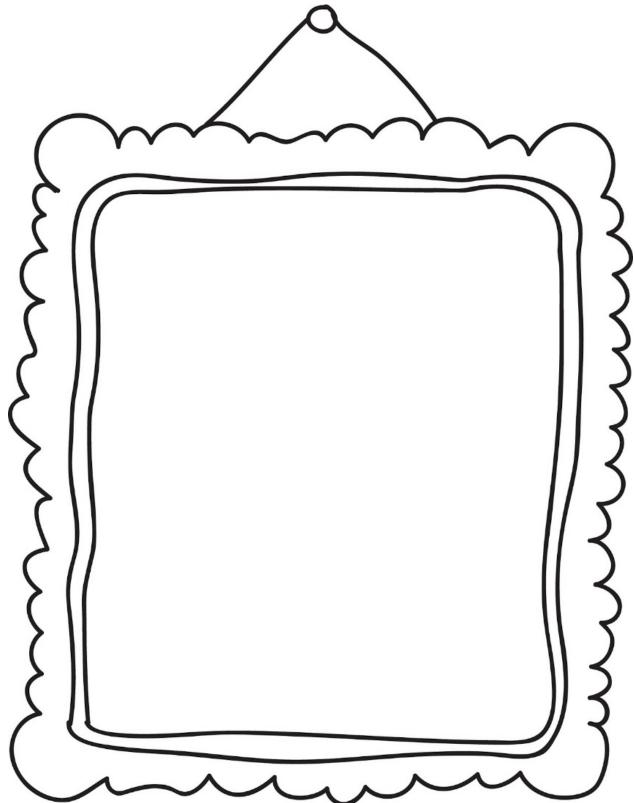

A for Ty Uchaf

- B for Ty Coch
- C for Ty Capel.

Buildings are quite easy to draw. They are usually made up of lots of geometric shapes, like squares, triangles and circles.

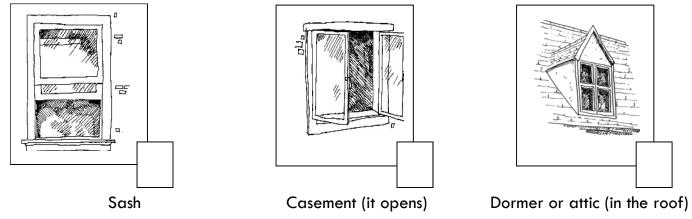

Have a go at drawing Ty Capel

Please tell an adult where you are going so they don't worry about where you are!

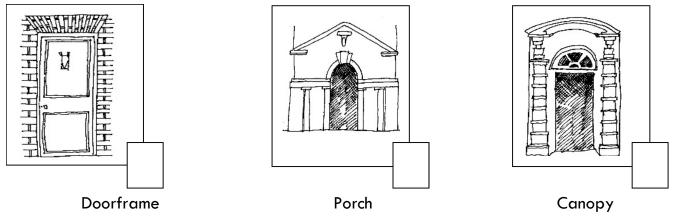

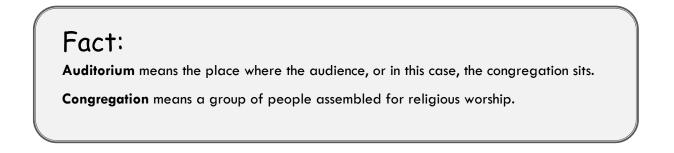

The size and shape of windows tells you a lot about the age and style of the building. What type of windows does Ty Capel have?

Entrances can be grand or simple. What is the front door of Ty Capel like?

Ty Capel was built in the late 19th century, in 1893. That's about 120 years ago. It was enlarged in 1892 because there were so many people coming to the chapel. There were about forty families coming every week. Have you seen the open air auditorium outside? It's like a lower bit of the grassy lawn; it was used when the congregation was particularly big.

Quest 🞯

Discover more about Ty Capel

Ty Capel has seen a few changes since it was first built in 1893. That's over 125 years ago! During that time, things have changed both inside and outside the building. Follow this quest to discover more about it.

Can you find the place where this photo was taken?

Fact:

Have you noticed the balustrades (say bal-oo-stray-ds)? They're the upright bits of wood which hold up the stair rail and the rail at the edge of the sleeping gallery. You can just see it in the picture.

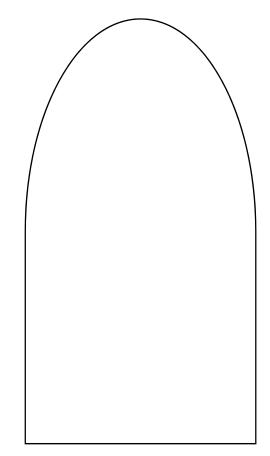

Well, those balustrades were made from the original altar rail at Ty Capel. It makes sense to reuse them, don't you think?

Look at the photo below – these are stained glass windows. Lots of churches have big, fancy stained glass windows but these are very simplistic. It was only a small chapel after all!

Why not have a go at drawing your own stained glass window in the space on the right. You can use any colour or pattern you like.

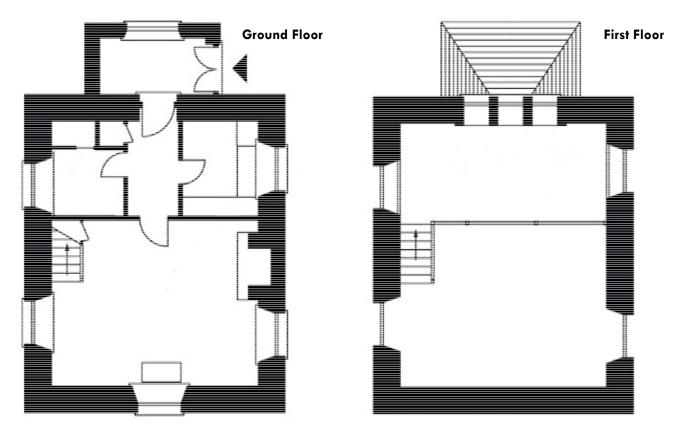

Living in Ty Capel

The floorplan of a building is a map of the rooms. Ty Capel has two floors. The plans below show you the shape of each room. Take a walk around each floor. Can you identify the rooms and write on the plan how they are used today?

When you've drawn all the beds, put a star, like this 🗙 on the bed that you're sleeping in!

We use these symbols t tables and bathrooms o to the floorplans to show	are. Add the symbols on

Can you find an example of each of these things inside Ty Capel. Describe, or draw the object when you find it.

Design your own woodland house

Hundreds of years ago there was a lot more woodland, countryside and open space than there is now. It would have been quite common for lots of people to have their home near or in woodlands with no other houses next door.

Have a go at designing your own woodland house, you can take inspiration from the houses here at Rhiwddolion or even make it a tree-top house! Be as creative as you want – there are no rules!

Make some Welsh cakes (Picau ar y maen)

These spiced cakes are also known as bakestones in Wales because they were traditionally cooked on a flat stone over a fire. When spices became available in the 17th century these were added for extra flavour. You can use a frying pan instead of a bakestone!

Ingredients

225 g self-raising flour	110g g unsalted Welsh butter
1 large egg, beaten	1 tbsp raisins or currants
85 g golden caster sugar	A little milk if needed

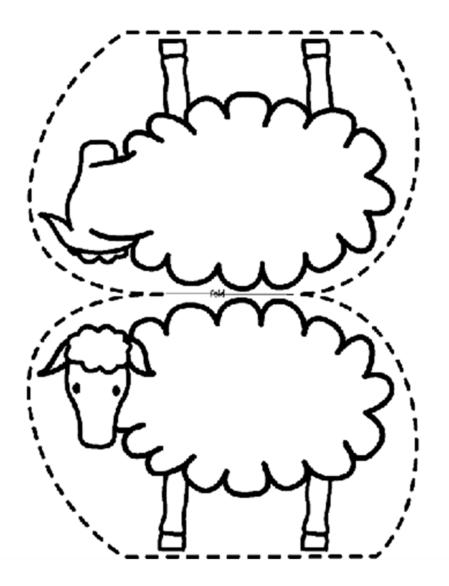

- In a large bowl, rub the butter into the flour until it looks like fine breadcrumbs.
- Add the sugar, dried fruit and then the egg. Mix to combine, and then push together to make a dough. If the mixture feels a little dry, add a little milk.
- Lightly flour your work surface. Roll out the dough until it is about 5mm thick. Cut into rounds about 10 cm wide. If you don't have a cookie cutter, use a drinking glass instead.
- Rub a frying pan with a little unsalted butter.
- Place over a low-medium heat, and cook the Welshcakes slowly until golden underneath.
- Turn them over, cook the other side until golden. They need about 2-3 minutes on each side.
- Remove from the pan and dust with caster sugar while still warm. You can eat them warm or cold, with or without butter on top. Yum!

Make a sheep, or your own flock of sheep

- 1. Colour in the sheep.
- 2. Glue the sheep onto a piece of thin cardboard, such as the inside of a cereal box.
- 3. When the glue has dried, cut along the dotted lines.
- 4. Fold in half along the solid line, so that your sheep stands up.
- 5. If you want to you could draw a picture of a field or farm on the rest of the cereal box and use it as a background for your sheep. Or use it to make more sheep by copying this one!

Learn a little Welsh...

Impress the people you are staying with by learning a little bit of Welsh.

Welsh can be tricky to learn as some of the letters sound different to how they would in English.
